THE HIGH COST OF EDUCATION

The ever mounting cost of educating a child is proving a burden to many parents of the Province. Year by year the cost is increasing, until at the present time it is exorbitant, and out of line with the earning capacity of many families. The Western Globe knows of families with children in High School who have had to deny themselves necessities in order to give their boys and girls a fair chance for an education. Every year the text books are changed—we have seen the British history changed several times in the past few years, and this is an expensive text book, and other essential historical books have met the same fate. It costs parents in the neighborhood of $25 or $30 to equip a child for High School, and many cannot afford this outlay without hardship. And to make matters worse, families are year by year foisting new text books on the department of education. Aside from the heavy cost of text books, there is another iniquitous tax put on the parents of Alberta. When examination time comes around, and students go up for departmental examinations, it costs each of them from $4.00 to $7.00 for the privilege of writing. This money goes to pay teachers, who are on their holidays, to mark the examination paper, and, with our teachers very handsomely paid for their year's work, we think this tax should be absorbed by the government, or by the teachers, themselves. We think every parent in the Province should make a protest through some organization at once and try and have relief provided.

Every child in the province is entitled to a good education, and we do not think it fair that the heavy cost of education should compel parents to deny their children this right.

DECORATION SUNDAY OBSERVED

The usual ceremony was observed on Decoration Day at the West We Forget Memorial Park on Sunday last. The park looked especially beautiful this year, a fitting surrounding for the Cenotaph. The impressive service was attended by an appreciative audience, many coming in from the country. Mayor G. T. Jackson, presided and the Rev. R. B. Layton gave an appropriate address. The Rev. Coyne Gifford offered the opening prayer and gave the benediction.

The King's message was read and the names called by Mr. John MacDonald, while Miss Margaret Alwinckle placed the individual flowers. The Last Post sounded by Mr. C. W. Braithwaite recalled many sad memories.

The flowers were beautiful and plentiful. Mrs. W. J. Simpson, Hon. Vice-President placed the West We Forget Club wreath, and President John MacDonald, the one from the Canadian Legion on the Cenotaph and others were laid by private individuals.

The service was continued at the Cemetery when flowers were laid on the soldier's graves, which were marked by a flag previously placed by Mr. C. Raymond.

HAVE YOU A SUGGESTION?

We have been asked on several occasions what steps should be taken by the governments and municipalities by which work could be provided for the youth of the Province. At present there is no work for boys from sixteen to eighteen who have been brought up in towns and cities and are just leaving school. There are thousands of these young lads in Alberta, most of them willing to work if work they could do could be provided. At present they are growing up in idleness, which will be a very bad thing for the country in the not distant future, and will prove ruinous for the boys.

We would like any of our readers who have any suggestions to make along this line, to write the editor, giving their views on the question.

FREE—EVERYBODY WELCOME

The Board of Trade has arranged with Mr. "Whip" Sharp of Stollter to show moving pictures of a trip through Europe which was taken during a recent visit. This meeting is being held under the joint auspices of the Board of Trade and the United Church, where the meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 8th, at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Sharp needs no introduction to many people in Lacombe. He will explain the pictures as they are shown; and, since he is a witty speaker, and since those who have seen the picture say they are wonderful, an interesting evening is assured everyone who can attend. Be sure and keep this evening open as no admission fee will be charged for an excellent evening's entertainment. Everyone is welcome.

"All Quiet on the Western Front." The book and the picture—the story of one war, but of all wars. Not the story of one army, but of all armies. Not the story of the youth of one nation, but of all nations. When he wrote his masterpiece, Remarque wrote it in spirit. When he entrusted its action transcription to Universal, Carl Laemmle agreed that the book would be pictured in the same spirit.

Universal has kept faith with him. There is nothing in the picture that is not in the book.

Universal has transposed the greatness of the book to the screen. All its resources have been called into the play to achieve this result. Universal has kept faith with the public too. The millions who have read Remarque's book will find the amazing and sensational narrative that has received world fame.

The immortal story of all war seen through the eyes of all youth. The picture tells the story.

RITCHIE CONDEMNS THE DOLE

"In the proposal of compulsory unemployment insurance for the United States there is a danger of bureaucracy so great that it would out weigh all other good things," writes Governor C. Ritchie, of Maryland. "So far has the British dole degenerated that almost anybody on of work can demand a job as good as the best he ever had or else draw insurance from the national treasury, whose advances now aggregate over $800,000,000, paid to idle, who have increased from 2,250,000 to 12,000,000."

"Not the American people but American industry must choose the way of meeting the problem for America. No thinking person wants the State or the nation to provide for labor in times of enforced idleness. Industry will fulfill its obligation. But many States are now active in the movement, and a Federal bill will be before Congress next December. If business will do nothing about it, then government must and will."

Governor Ritchie is evidently adamantly opposed to the dole system. It is an attitude of mind which is general among Canadian citizens. We realize that the dole has palpable drawbacks, and public opinion here definitely opposed to institution of non-contributory unemployment insurance.

However, it is an easier thing to condemn the British system than to find any other unemployment remedy. We can only watch developments on the other side of the Atlantic and hope for the best.

For ourselves, however, we can take Governor Ritchie's warning to heart. We can, perhaps, take steps to avert the growth of the dole system in Canada, for the Dominion is young, undeveloped and has the future ahead of it. And the first step is to simplify our present system of insuring relief work.

Extensive government expenditures on public works during periods of depression, and a policy of governmental economy during boom times, are the best unemployment relief policy to adopt. We are suffering at the present time from lack of organization. The first necessity is Federal leadership and organization during the current depression. The second necessity is for a policy of continual awareness of the possibility of unemployment. Otherwise we may find the dole system on us before we have realized it was approaching.

Miss Brenna B. Reed, A.T.C.M., L.A.B., who has been spending the summer with her parents Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Reed, at the Experimental Station, has returned to Toronto to continue her studies and resume her piano teaching in Toronto Conservatory, Branksome Hall, and one of the Toronto Public Schools.

THE PROFITEER RAILWAYS?

The Baseno Mail points out that the expense war is laid on between railway lines and truck companies and that the former have been forced to reduce their rates in areas where bus competition is strong. Commenting on this, the Mail says: If the railways can carry on their business at a profit under the lower rates, these rates should apply to the whole system, and not only where truck competition is affecting their business."

This is a curious attitude to take at the present time. It is generally admitted that the railways today are facing obstacles that they have never faced before, that they have been driven into unfair competition with transportation companies which utilize government-supported roads, while the railways have to meet track maintenance expenses, and that—most important of all—Canadian railway must be saved at all costs from losing prestige.

Let us assume, for the sake of argument, that the express rates charged by the Canadian Pacific Railway in areas where there is no cut-throat competition are high enough to bring in a considerable profit. What about the hundreds of utilities operated at a loss by the company for the benefit of Canadians and to attract tourists to Canada? Does the Baseno Mail presume pleasure resorts and winter gardens which are subsidiaries to the railway—but extremely expensive subsidiaries—are being run at a profit at the present time?

It is patently evident that the railways are today forced to meet an enormous drain. We do not begrudge the railways what profit they can make, providing no section of the community is specifically penalized, and we do not believe the present is a good time to capitalize unfair competition to force a uniform reduction port the railway.

If the community forced railway revenues lower than they are at present, they might force the railways to scrap many utilities which today bring pleasure to Canadians and profit to many communities. Fortunately the majority of Canadians today realize how necessary it is to support the railways.

NEW RECORDS BY BRITISH FLIERS

The solid achievements of British aircraft may be overlooked in the fabledness which greets foreign achievements, simply because they are foreign. On the same day that Mr. J. A. Mollison landed at Croydon and established a new record flight by air between Australia and England, Miss Amy Johnson and Mr. C. S. Humphrey stepped out of a Gipsy moth at the Takikawa airport, near Tokyo, whether they had flown from England inside of ten days. Inevitably overshadowed by Hollison's achievement, this journey to Japan is yet a magnificent example of the kind of "grand touring" associated nowadays with light airplane travel. The airplane, exactly similar in essentials to Mollison's was completely standard, carrying a normal load of 36 gallons of fuel. Miss Johnson and Mr. Humphrey established a light plane record for a trip to Tokyo, and showed how comparatively simple at some seasons of the year is the air journey across the immense spaces of Asiatic Russia. Their notable journey has scarcely been mentioned, those some of our papers have been flooded with news of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh's flight.

WHO WILL CONTROL BEAUHARNOIS

The parliamentary inquiry into the Beauharnois power project left the matter of ultimate control in doubt. The impression has gained ground as the result of speeches in the house that Sweeney, Henry and other officials must step out. It is not without interest to Beauharnois stockholders and the public generally that the eastern financial press has been suggesting since protraction that the Montreal Power group, headed by Sir Herbert Holt, are the logical applicants to whom should be entrusted control.

A statement in this week's issue of the Montreal Financial Times lends further color to the suggestion. In reply to a query from a subscriber it says:

"The Montreal Power Company has had from an early date a very substantial interest in the Beauharnois project and apparently this interest has been extended, until now it is commonly believed that Power has practical control of the Beauharnois organization."

"It has always been the policy of Montreal Light, Heat and Power to maintain a close physical association with the corporations upon which it depends for its power supplies—such as the stock interest in Shawinigan, its partial control of Montreal Island Power, and lately its substantial interest in Beauharnois."

Whether it would be in the public interest to place the great enterprise in the hands of this group is another matter.

NATIONS PARADE FIGHTING STRENGTH

Europe may be talking and longing for disarmament, but France and Italy are steadily developing their fighting efficiency, especially in the air. Two dispatches today, one from Italy and one from France, may well cause serious disquiet because of the unfriendly relations between these two countries.

A dispatch from Spezia says: "Eight hundred army aeroplanes swooped down from the north in sham battle 'wiped out' part of this important shipbuilding centre today (August 27), while King Victor Emmanuel, Premier Mussolini and heads of the army and navy looked on. It was the opening of the first battle manoeuvres conducted by Italy's new army air force."

There may be a considerable significance in the fact that France selected the same date for a counter demonstration of war preparedness and near the Italian border at that. A dispatch from Nancy, France, states:

"Marshal Petain and other high army officers are reviewing a three-day demonstration of land and air forces on France's eastern frontier. It will last until Saturday. The people are required to act as in time of war and all lights must be out by 9 a.m."

PRICE ADVANCE PROBABLE

A recent survey of the world wheat situation indicates that production this year is likely to be considerably less than estimated a few months ago. Incessant rains have played havoc with the crop prospects in Great Britain, France and Germany, and from Russia there is news that a prolonged drought will seriously decrease production in that country. While reports from Russia must be taken with a grain of salt, the general impression in leading grain circles is that in spite of increased acreage, the Russian crop will be smaller than last year. Moreover, owing to increased agitation at home for more liberal food supplies, the proportion available for export will be restricted in any event. Last year's experiment of dumping all the available wheat on the world's markets in order to get foreign credit nearly caused a revolution. Reports from the Argentine and Australia declare that amount of wheat available for export will be greatly curtailed.

In view of all these conditions, it would not be surprising if there is an early improvement in prices for Canadian wheat. The prairie crop is much smaller than a year ago but the quality is high and so far harvesting conditions have been very favorable.

A recent report from Washington stated that the acreage to be seeded in winter wheat in the States will be greatly restricted this fall, due to the prevailing low prices. According to the forecast the winter wheat area may be less this fall than in the preceding autumn by an average of 16 per cent. Applied to all the producing states, that would mean a total of 35,600,000 acres against 42,250,000 in 1930. The average yield expectancy would be 465,000,000 bushels compared with a current production of about 775,000,000. If the department of agriculture data bear out these calculations, the farm board will have witnessed a long step toward fulfillment of its recommendation that acreage be reduced to a point where, normally, the output will be approximately sufficient to meet domestic requirements alone. The statistics cited, of course refer to winter wheat only. The north western spring wheat territory is not included, since intentions as to sowing time will not be made apparent in a definite manner until early in 1932.

A Stand-by Through the Years

CROP yields vary—so do prices of farm products—but the farm must be carried on just the same; and money, ready money, is needed for the less fruitful years.

A Savings Account is the best guarantee that, no matter what general conditions may be, the farmer will pay his way and keep his farm in first-class order.

Looking to the Future

Robert Gardiner, M.L.A., president of the United Farmers of Alberta, says:

"Looking to the future I am confident that Alberta farmers will never be satisfied by any system of marketing that not strictly co-operative in its basis, because no other system can meet their needs."

"By patronizing Pool elevators we can speed the day when the co-operative system will be firmly established as the normal method of handling our products."

Strict Dealing With Revolutionaries

A Scotch Communist rioter in Vancouver is to be deported by the Dominion authorities. The action taken in this case is to be commended. It is difficult to see how any Canadian, loyal to the institutions and law of his country, could view the matter in any other light.

Much is heard these days of the right of the Canadian to free speech. As to this right there is no argument. Let it be admitted that in Canada all men have the right to speak their minds freely so long as their speech does not bring them into conflict with the law of the land. When they transgress the law, they forfeit their right to its protection.

Men who by their public utterances incite others to break the law are equally guilty with the law breakers, even though they are careful not to commit illegal acts themselves. Men who are thus easily led into law breaking can have no good excuse to offer for their lawlessness and are entitled to little, if any, sympathy.

Where offences against law and good order are committed, either by word or act, by those who are subject to deportation regulations of the country, it is the part of wisdom, particularly in such times as the present, for the authorities, right to enforce those regulations. At no time in the history of Canada has there been greater need for one hundred per cent. loyalty to the national cause on the part of the Canadian people. Loyalty to the national cause calls for full support given to the authorities in the preservation of law and order and willing acquiescence in furtherance of those policies determined upon by parliament, having in view the future well-being of the country and its people.

Men or women who cannot or will not give this sort of loyalty and who prefer to "rock the boat" in the moment of national stress and storm, are unworthy of the name of a citizen. If the law of the country, which is the will of its citizens, as expressed through their parliamentary representatives, is not to their liking, it is their privilege to take themselves elsewhere. If they refuse to do this it is essential for the good health of the nation that they be assisted out of the country.

They are making no mistake in this connection in the United States. In a recent issue the Indianapolis News recorded the fact that "every few days special trains carrying about 250 aliens pass through the middle western cities to the eastern seaboard carrying passengers on their way home—some much against their will." Editorially this paper says that President Hoover's recent Indianapolis speech, in which he declared that the administration is disposed to strict enforcement of the immigration laws, was greeted with great applause, adding, "The war revolution of unassimilated alien groups converted the people to a restrictive law to limit immigration, and in recent years economic pressure has won more to this view."

Canada cannot afford to harbor within her borders those who by word or act encourage disrespect for the overthrow of constituted authority in a revolutionary manner. Those who attempt that sort of thing, whether they be English, Irish, or Scotch, or of foreign birth, should be speedily returned to their native shores.

ALBERTA SHOULD FOLLOW SUIT

Winnipeg—Cabinet ministers and civil service employees of the Manitoba government will have their salaries lowered, starting from September 1. The Manitoba administration hopes to save at least $300,000 by cutting cabinet ministers' salaries 12 per cent. and civil service employees 20 per cent.

The step is taken, the government states, to meet the economic emergency and to make more money available for unemployment and farm relief. Premier John Bracken, under the salary cut, will lose $1040, representing a cut of $900 in straight salary and $90 in legislative sessional indemnity. His salary, it was stated, even without the reduction, was the lowest of any provincial premier west of the maritimes.

Premier Bracken, in announcing the step, said other ministers will have their salaries lowered by $900 each, including reduction of sessional indemnity. He added that the ministers, deputy ministers and officers of the various departments had concurred in his move.

TIME TO SETTLE

Highway routing. An early decision is expected as to the route of the Trans-Canada Highway through Saskatchewan and Alberta. It was thought that this matter had been settled some years ago, but Edmonton and Saskatoon are waging a campaign in favor of the more northerly route to take in those cities, and the Premier of Alberta is undecided. He will seek the opinions of the Premiers of Saskatchewan and British Columbia before reaching any conclusion. In the meantime the government of the coast province is waiting for Mr. Bracken to make up his mind.

From the standpoint of population and highway construction already completed as links in the proposed transcontinental motor road, the advantages are all in favor of the south. The British Columbia section is already completed through to Revelstoke and the last remaining gap between that centre and Golden is nearing completion. A highway from Golden across Alberta to Medicine Hat was built several years ago. The mountain highway from Golden to Calgary is in excellent shape, and under the relief programme the Calgary-Medicine Hat division could be modernized in a very short time. On the other hand, the selection of the Yellowhead route would involve a much greater outlay and a less direct route from Winnipeg to the coast. No work has yet been attempted in constructing a highway from Jasper Park south to connect with the British Columbia highway. With the exception of Jasper Park, there are comparatively few populated centres from Edmonton west. It is therefore not practicable as an immediate project.

In discussing the situation as it affects British Columbia, the Vancouver Province said recently: "The choice of a national route does not all depend on this province. If Alberta decides that the Trans-Canada Highway must go through Calgary, that will be a strong reason for bringing our part of the national highway through the Kicking Horse, round the Big Bend of the Columbia, and down to the coast by the valleys of the Columbia, Thompson and Fraser, past Revelstoke and Kamloops and Lyton and down the canyon road to Hope. If Alberta decides that Edmonton shall get the Trans-Canada Highway, then the natural route of the highway in British Columbia would be through the Yellowhead and down the North Thompson to Kamloops. Besides these, there is the claim of the road through the Crow's Nest and on by the Kootenays and the Southern Okanagan to the Hope-Princeton road."

GOD'S MORE BASHFUL CHILLUN

Madame A. L. Walker Robinson, the only daughter of Madame Sarah J. Walker, the first negro millionaire in the United States, died at Long Branch, N.J., on Tuesday. Madame Walker built up the family fortune on preparation to remove the kinks from negro hair.

There are no doubt many persons imbued with the spirit of the Old South, who regard a negro millionaire as a menace and whose attitude towards Madame Robinson's death will be one of condemnation of her fortune rather than of sympathy for her relatives and friends. And, in judging such persons, we must remember that the negro is oppressed in the Southern States because he presents a definite social problem.

Yet the real tragedy lies in the fact that it is possible for anyone to make a fortune by taking kinks out of negro hair. It is not natural for negroes to desire to take the kinks out of their hair—on the contrary, it is extremely unhealthy. It means that the negroes are ashamed of their own physical characteristics, that the oppression of generations has produced the phrase is unavoidable—an inferiority complex among the dark people of North America. And this is a definitely bad thing. It is all right for the white man to assume superiority over the negro and to regard him as an inferior animal. For it is natural for human beings to be pompastic, exaggerating and snobbish when circumstances are conducive. But it is far from right for the negro to be ashamed of his color and the kinks in his hair, for such an attitude suggests that something has become stunted in the negro's outlook. If a race is ashamed of its racial characteristics, it is headed for obliteration.
